Corporate Governance

The Management of the company has a professional code of conduct that is constantly updated and the philosophy of which is based on honesty, integrity and good judgement of the employees, directors and board members, as shown in the Annual Corporate Governance Report, which outlines the structure of the administration, the risks control systems, the degree of follow-up on recommendations in matters of corporate governance, and the instruments of information; and which shows the commitment of the Management to maintaining an appropriate system of internal control and risks management, the good corporate governance, and the ethics conduct of the organization and its employees.

All the directorates, mainly of the departments of human resources and internal audits, strive towards ensuring compliance with the code, and inform the management of any improper conduct that is observed, even as the appropriate measures are taken.

Abengoa's internal control system is equipped with various mechanisms and procedures that enable the mitigation of risks of fraud.

In this manner and following the guidelines provided in section 301 of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act, the Audit Committee decided to establish specific procedures for:

- › The reception, safeguard and processing of complaints or reports that the company may receive in relation to the accounting, internal monitoring of the accounting or auditing matters.
- › Employees of the company to be able to confidentially or anonymously send information in good faith on dubious or arguable policies of accounting and auditing.

Thus, Abengoa has a twin mechanism for receiving complaints or reports:

- › An internal channel, which is available to all employees, so that they can notify any alleged irregularity in accounting or audits or breaches of the code of conduct.
- › An external channel, available to anyone outside the company, so that they can notify any alleged irregularities, fraudulent actions or breaches of Abengoa's code of conduct through the website (www.abengoa.com).

The whistle-blowing policy guarantees the absence of reprisals for sincere whistle-blowers, who may make their reports on the basis of confidentiality. Likewise, both the internal as well as external whistle-blowing admits and accepts anonymous reporting.

This policy applies to any employee of the Group, consultants, suppliers or third parties with direct relationship and legitimate profession or business interest.

Each report received is thoroughly investigated by the internal auditors. Within the internal audit department, Abengoa has a specific unit assigned to investigation of reports received through the various whistle-blowing channels and to ensuring that the fraud prevention measures are put in place. In cases in which the technical complexity so requires, independent experts collaborate with them to ensure at all times that sufficient capacity exists for the appropriate investigation and to ensure sufficient level of objectivity in doing the job.
